Hakros - SecureLock Crack [Mac/Win]

SecureLock for Mac is a safe application. Every time your MacBook is locked your password is deleted, and you'll have to unlock it to use it. Even if you just leave your MacBook on your desk or put it on silent or sleep, it will stay locked. If you wake up or return to your MacBook, you'll be able to use it again without needing to type in your password. At this point, you will need to see all attempts, you should be able to find out for what reason your MacBook went into the locked state, or why, for example, your web browser went to the homepage or your mail client received a new message. How does SecureLock work? SecureLock is a safe application. It will not delete the password you set, and if you forget your password, you'll have to unlock it and enter the password you created to access your MacBook. However, if you leave your MacBook on the desk or in sleep mode, it will stay locked. Even if you wake up or return to your MacBook, you'll have to unlock it. The password you set is deleted right after this. SecureLock needs access to your home folder to make changes. You can switch it off if you don't want that. How to use SecureLock? 1. Install SecureLock Open Installer, double-click Installer, wait until the installation is complete, and close the installer. 2. Save your password to the keychain When the window below opens, enter your password and click ok. 3. Protect your MacBook On the menu bar, click SecureLock and save the settings. The application is now ready for use. If you want to restore the application to its default state, click Reset On the menu bar. This app contains the option of launching the web browser when shutting down your MacBook. If you click the button here, the web browser will automatically launch when shutting down your laptop. When you're finished using your laptop, just double-click the button on the top-right. The application will ask you for confirmation. Hakros - SecureLock License Keygen

Hakros - SecureLock is a straightforward and practical application whose main purpose is to help you secure your computer and protect critical data against unauthorized users. Although it comes with basic features and an intuitive interface, Hakros - SecureLock aims to protect your system during your absence, thus preventing the use of system resources and access your important documents. It manages to carry out its task by allowing you to set your favorite password and lock your screen each time you leave the computer. Thus, you can be rest assured that your files will be protected no matter the circumstances. Still, if you leave your computer unattended or simply forget to close it but the secure mode is turned on and is blocking the system, after returning to your computer, you can generate reports from where you can view all the failed attempts. This way, you have the possibility to view if someone is trying to access your computer each time you leave from your desk. Additional features that the application comes with are the audible alarm sounds, USB protection and customizable background. You have the possibility to set your own image as background and lock the mouse cursor. However, if you want to restore all the default configurations and get back the application to its first state, you are able to access the 'Default Cfg' option. All things considered, Hakros - SecureLock is worth having when you need to protect your computer from unauthorized users in a secure way.
