At a ribbon-cutting for the new road to Cedar Run State Park in Russellville on Wednesday, the state Department of Parks and Tourism's Tonya Young welcomed guests to a property that had been in Cedar Run since the 1880s. When the new road was built, it did not intrude on the park. The road connects to McAdams Avenue and U.S. 62/64. In addition to a scenic drive and park views, those wanting to visit the park will have a new entrance. "We had the old road that runs along the entrance to the park, and we wanted to find a way to use that land," Young said. "Our engineers did a great job coming up with that route, and it allows us to eventually develop that as a park as well." The first phase of the new park is expected to be completed by the end of the year. The second phase will build a 3,400-acre campground, and the third phase will create 4,700 acres to the southwest. "I think we can attract campers and park visitors to the new Cedar Run State Park," Young said. "There is so much that we need to see for this project to be complete." Young said the state spent $1.2 million to create the new road. "It's a beautiful street," she said. "It's lined with trees; it's very easy to walk and easy to bike on." Scottie Cobb, a state parks administrator, said the road was a way to let more people access the parks. "It was long overdue," he said. "We really wanted to go ahead and give people
