Activator..A fiber-based patch-clamp for electrophysiological experiments at the micrometer scale. We report on a patch-clamp system in which micropipettes with tip diameters of 500-600 microm can be loaded with standard patch pipettes. These micropipettes can be mounted on the output of a micropipette holder designed for vertical positioning of a conventional patch pipette. Electrodes of 100-150 microm diameter are driven by a piezoelectric actuator. The electric connection to the electrodes is established using a fiber optic patch cord, which also contains a patch cable for monitoring the membrane potential and seal resistance. Electrical signals are transferred through a flexible fiber channel via a quartz capillary. Seal resistances of 8, 26, and 78 G omega are observed, corresponding to pipettes with tip diameters of 300, 450, and 600 microm, respectively. This system will be useful for in situ recording of single-channel currents in microelectrode studies. $8^? - b^{*2} + 40 * b + 12$ What is the x'th term of 2 6 9, 2 6 8, 2 6 7, 2 6 6, 2 6 5, 2 6 4? - x + 2 7 0
